MINERS MEET.

All the Officers and District Presidents at Columbus.

A Movement to Declare the Strike Off—The Situation Unchanged in the Coal Field.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 5.—Substantially all officers and district presidents of the United Mine Workers of America met today at the Grand Central hotel. They opened with an executive session. An effort is being made by outsiders, it is understood, to have these officers declare in favor of a resumption of work at all mines in Ohio, western Pennsylvania, Indiana, central Illinois and certain other contiguous territory, provided the operators in such territory, or some of them, consent to pay the price that is asked for mining. The argument that is being brought to bear to effect this plan is that while the miners, as a rule, have been law abiding and have won a fair share of public sympathy, some of them seem to feel disposed to disobey President McBride's strict injunction to keep within the law, and because of such disobedience public sympathy may turn the other way. A well known operator here, in speaking of the movement to resume work upon the plan herein outlined, says it were better to resume upon the foregoing conditions for less money than the scale of last year. What effect this effort to secure a settlement may have cannot be foreshadowed, as the miners' officials will not talk for publication. It is known, however, that some of them have been urged to settle on the foregoing basis.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—The situation at Cartersville, Williamson county, is still serious. The sheriff there has again notified the governor that he cannot handle the mob, which now numbers 2,000. President Parker, of the Cairo short line, has notified the governor that the miners have taken up rails and otherwise destroyed property. Sheriff Dowell wired today:

"Miners fired on the regular train today, as it passed the switch. I make demand for state militia for protection."

The governor is just back from Carlisle. Three companies have been ordered to be ready to move at any moment.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 5.—It is stated upon reliable authority that at the meeting of the executive officials and district presidents of the United Mine Workers, now in session in Columbus, a communication was received from the Illinois operators that if another conference of miners and operators is held the Illinois operators will attend. This is exceedingly important, as the refusal of the Illinois and West Virginia operators to attend the Cleveland conference was the cause of its failure. A meeting of committees of operators and miners of the different states will likely be held at Columbus on Friday, and a settlement looks more probable than at any time since the inauguration of the strike. It is stated that President McBride has expressed a willingness to accept sixty-nine cents for Pennsylvania and sixty cents for Ohio. A meeting of a number of Cleveland, Youngstown and Pittsburg operators has been in session here today, the purpose being to decide upon starting their mines with negroes.

DENVER, Colo., June 5.—The fifty-five miners who took possession of a Rio Grande southern train at Rico, intending to go to the assistance of the strikers at Cripple Creek, were hauled as far as Montrose. There the engineer uncoupled and ran ahead, leaving the cars behind. The company applied to General McCook for troops to capture the train stealers, as the train carried the mails, but the general cannot comply until orders are received from Washington.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—In anticipation of trouble in the mining region of western Maryland the governor has ordered the fifth regiment to immediately proceed to Cumberland.

RIDGWAY, Pa., May 5.—Hall, Kane & Co. have 170 negroes at work today at their Shawmut and Noble mines. The negroes arrived at the mines by special train last night at 1:30 o'clock, and were put to work today. Sixty-three strikers are in jail here. They came overland last night, arriving here at midnight in charge of six deputies. The strikers had with them a brass band and all night long made merry and seemed to accept the situation in good humor. More deputies left here about 2 o'clock, armed with Winchesters and small arms. The men under arrest are held for unlawful assembly and for violating an injunction of court.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 5.—Local miners refused today to allow any coal to leave the tipples for domestic consumption. The miners in all the small banks in this vicinity are out, but the best of order prevails. It is likely all the manufactories in the Beaver valley will have to shut down this week for want of coal and the situation is alarming.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., June 5.—A crowd of 1,000 strikers camped near Painter's works last night and at daybreak the deputies fired upon them for the purpose of frightening them off. The fire was returned, but one man was slightly wounded. The men, however, succeeded in keeping the new men away and no coke will be drawn today. The strikers are elated over their success and claim that by the end of the week they will have all the works shut down.

Immigrant Inspector Horan arrived last night from Pittsburg to look after the forty-two Austrians shipped into the coke region last week by the Rainey company. He intends to institute an investigation to ascertain if they were brought here in violation of the immigrant laws. If so, he will immediately enter civil proceedings against the company.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—Strikers about 500 in number, made a descent upon the Hoffman mines in the Georges creek region, near Cumberland, owned by the Consolidated Coal company, today, and drove the men at work out. The workmen at first were disposed to offer resistance, but seeing that they were outnumbered, they withdrew. The mob threatened that if they returned to work while the strike continued, they would fare badly. The mob then marched to other mines of the Consolidated Coal company and made a demand upon the miners to quit work. Their demand was promptly refused and the strikers began preparations to enforce it. It is reported that a sheriff's posse has been captured by the mob. The consolidated company has only 100 men at work today. It had 301 men at work yesterday. A special from Cumberland to the News says that the situation is alarming there and there is a fear that every moment the outbreak may assume a more serious phase.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 5.—Many of the Cripple Creek mine owners are not disposed to abide by the terms of the agreement made at Denver last night. The excitement here is greater than at any time since the beginning of the trouble. Another train of deputies was sent to Divide today with a Gatling gun which was bought at Chicago. Sheriff Bowers declares he will arrest all strikers who have broken the laws by their action at Bull Hill. It is not expected that the troops will reach Cripple Creek before tomorrow.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—The governor this afternoon ordered troops sent to Cartersville at once. One company each from Belleville, Carbondale and Marion. Supplies will follow from here at once.

DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—A special to the News from Sebewaing, Mich., says: All the miners employed by the Saginaw Bay Coal company walked out this morning, demanding $1 a ton. They are now getting eighty-five cents. Seventy miners are employed at Sebewaing.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—A special to the Post from Ashland, Ky., says the strikers that were expected to blow up the bridge at Kenova, W. Va., last night failed to arrive. The bridge was guarded all night and a strong guard will be kept on duty until all danger is past. The entire railroad detective force is scattered along the Scioto division watching every movement of the strikers.

SULLIVAN, Ind., June 5.—The reported battle of last night at Farmersburg was without foundation. The miners, however, are resorting to violent measures. The coal train captured last night and run out on the Alum Cave branch has been wrecked and the coal fired. The track is blocked by burning coal. A freight has been blown up with dynamite. It is reported that 500 miners are marching towards Shelburn. The tracks to Alum Cave being blocked, the troops left Farmersburg today on the march to Alum Cave, leaving a detachment to guard the bridges.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 5.—A mob of 15,000 men, women and children assembled about the entrance to the National tub works at McKeesport, about noon and tried to compel the few men who had gone to work today to come out. The men attempted to leave the works, but were forced back by the howling mob. In the rush one man was injured. The mayor has offered the entire police force on duty and serious trouble is expected this evening when the men quit work. It is likely that the company will ask for deputy sheriffs.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., June 5.—State Organizer McIntosh, of the Western Federation of Miners, says the miners have accepted the settlement arranged by Governor Waite and Messrs. Hagerman and Moffat in good faith and are ready for peace.

CROPS SHORT.

Iowa Indulges in a Spring Drought Which Kills Grass.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 5.—The Iowa crop bulletin says: "In the larger part of the state the last three weeks has been practically rainless. Grass and oats are suffering the greatest damage from this almost unprecedented spring drought. The early hay crop will be extremely light and in the central and southern districts the damage to oats is beyond recovery. With favorable conditions the balance of the season Iowa will produce a corn crop of old time proportions. Pastures are very short, and in many localities cattle are receiving extra rations of fodder.

WOMAN KILLED.

Shot by Oscar Hodgins, Who Then Killed Himself.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—Oscar P. Hodgins today shot and killed Mrs. Millie Jones, a widow, and the mother of two children. The cause is a mystery, little being known of the relations of the couple.

Plague Breaks Out.

LONDON, June 5.—The Gazette today publishes a notification to the effect that, according to a dispatch from the British minister at Stockholm, the island of Hannogen is infected with the plague.

SUGAR SCHEDULE.

The Senate Votes on the Various Amendments.

The Jones' Amendment, Affecting the Date of Enforcement, Passed by a Vote of 40 to 31.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The house New York and New Jersey bridge bill passed the senate today, with amendments which will probably be accepted by the house.

On motion of Senator Power, of Montana, a bill authorizing the Missouri River Power company to build a dam across the Missouri river was passed, and on motion of Senator Quay a bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Monongahela river at Homestead, Pa., was passed.

The tariff bill was laid before the senate and the sugar schedule again taken up. Senator Higgins opened the debate with a general assault on the sugar schedule and an argument in favor of continuing the bounty provision of the McKinley law.

The voting on the sugar schedule began promptly at 1 p. m. The first vote was on the Jones amendment, fixing the date when the sugar schedule should go into effect and the sugar bounty be terminated on January 1, 1895. The vote resulted: Ayes, 40; nays, 31. The amendment was adopted. Mr. Hill did not vote and Mr. Peffer voted with the republicans. Allen and Kyle voted with the democrats and Brice and Vilas withdrew their votes, being paired with Wolcott and Mitchell, of Oregon.

The next vote was upon the amendment offered by Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, providing for the retention of the bounty provision of the McKinley law. The amendment was defeated. Ayes, 32; nays, 40. Hill voted no, as did also Allen and Kyle. Peffer, of Kansas, voted with the republicans.

Mr. Manderson next proposed an amendment decreasing the bounty one-tenth of a cent each year until the time fixed in the McKinley law for expiration. This was also defeated, ayes 34, nays 37. Allen and Kyle, who had been voting with the democrats, voted with the republicans on this amendment. Hill did not vote.

Manderson then offered an amendment applying the bounty to beet and sorghum sugar only. This was defeated, ayes, 31, nays 40. Allen and Kyle voted no.

Manderson offered another amendment, confining bounty to sorghum and beet sugar, and after 1895 reducing it to one cent per pound. This was also defeated—ayes, 34; nays, 37. Allen and Kyle voted aye.

Allison then offered an amendment to add at the end of the paragraph a proviso that the bounty shall be eight-tenths of one cent for sugar produced in the United States in 1894. This was also defeated—ayes, 32; nays, 40.

CRUISER MINNEAPOLIS

Out on Her Preliminary Builders' Trial Trip.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—The United States cruiser Minneapolis started down the Delaware river from Cramp's ship yard in a driving rain storm at 10 o'clock this morning on her preliminary or builders' trial trip. After having her compasses adjusted, the Minneapolis will tomorrow pass out of the Delaware gaps and if the weather conditions are favorable she will be given a long run up and down the coast. The principal object of the present trial is to find out just what the ship is capable of accomplishing, and she will be put through all sorts of evolutions. On Thursday there will be a further test at sea and probably a limited speed trial over the nine knots course between the northeast and southeast light ships, which are anchored ten miles off the Cape May coast. Then, if everything is satisfactory, the start for home will be made and the ship will be in her dock Friday afternoon.

A JEALOUS HUSBAND

Kills His Bride and Himself—Married Two Weeks.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 5.—Joseph Zoelinski, a retired contractor of some means, was married two weeks ago to Mrs. Anna Fleming, a somewhat wealthy widow, whose husband died five months ago. The pair returned from their bridal trip yesterday and took apartments at Beech and Ontario streets. About the middle of the afternoon Zoelinski started to come down stairs and found his wife sitting at the bottom. He pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot her, the bullet entering below the shoulder blade. He then placed the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth and fired. When the police arrived Mrs. Zoelinski was dead and her husband was gasping faintly, expiring a few minutes later. He was very jealous of his new wife. Mrs. Zoelinski had stated to others in the house, and no other motive can be assigned for the deed.

OREGON ELECTION.

The Republicans Score a Victory in That State.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 5.—Yesterday's election in this state was a victory for the republicans. Judge Lord, (republican), for governor, is elected by not less than 15,000 plurality. The counting is slow and in this city the count will not be completed before Wednesday night. From meagre returns outside this city it is believed the republicans will control all of the branches of the legislature. The vote for Ellis, for congress in the Second district is slightly below that of the governor, but his plurality will not be short of 2,000. Herman, republican, for congress in the First district, will have at least 1,500 plurality. George P. Frank is elected mayor of this city by at least 1,000 majority.

METHODIST BISHOPS.

"They Must Not Be Bosses," Says Dr. Nayler.

And He Goes On to Criticise Bishop Fowler for His Arbitrary Ruling in Church Matters.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—"Bishops must not be bosses," was the way the Rev. Dr. Henry R. Nayler paid his respects to Bishop Charles H. Fowler in his address in the Methodist minister's meeting[illegible] on the subject of limiting the power of Methodist bishops. The story of Dr. Nayler's removal from his former position as presiding elder of the Washington district to the South Baltimore Methodist church, of which he is now pastor, is well known. The removal was made by Bishop Fowler in the annual meeting of the Baltimore conference in Frederick in March. Dr. Nayler had not served as presiding elder in Washington the full time allowed presiding elders and he did not want to be transferred. He was unusually popular with the churches, and a majority of them openly rebelled against the action of the bishop in sending Dr. Nayler to Baltimore and passed resolutions requesting that such action be reconsidered. The bishop did not comply. Dr. Nayler said that a bishop had removed a preacher from one appointment to another with the avowed intention of crushing him. Before the year was out the preacher had died of a broken heart, leaving a widow and orphans. Dr. Nayler said the system crushed manhood, made widows and orphans, created sycophants and muzzled the "religious" press. "The idea is," said Dr. Nayler, "that when a man enters the Methodist ministry he surrenders his will. I have never seen a church or a man to whom I would surrender my will. Who is the church? Are not the 12,000 ministers in the church? Who are the 12,000 ministers' wives if they are not in the church? What are the 25,000 ministers' children if they are not a part of the church? John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist church in America, was a royalist who considered George Washington a rebel, and his instincts were toward a monarchial form of government. Hence, when he appointed the first bishops of America, it was not strange he gave them absolute power. It may have been wise and necessary then, when there was only one conference. But now, with nearly a hundred conferences and 12,000 preachers, it was unwise and unjust."

NEW STEAMBOAT.

The Northwest Will Start on Her First Trip Tonight.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 5.—Promptly at 9 o'clock this evening the steamer Northwest, of the Northern Steamship line, starts for Duluth, Minn., on her maiden trip. She is expected to reach her destination in fifty six hours, including four hours stops. Nearly 100 first class passengers are booked for the trip from Buffalo and as many more will embark in Cleveland and Detroit. No freight or second-class passengers will be carried. On her way up, the Northwest will formally open the Hay Lake channel in the Sault, being the first vessel to pass through. She will return to Buffalo next Monday.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

General Hewston Charged With Murdering Burton.

LONDON, June 5.—The coroner's jury this morning returned a verdict, holding Gen. John Hewston guilty of manslaughter, and added a note saying the jury did not believe that the wound which caused Burton's death was inflicted wilfully. It is believed from the finding of the jury that Hewston will eventually be acquitted.

Seven more boys are critically ill from the same cause.

OUT OF FUEL.

The Ohio Central Railroad Discontinues Freight Business.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 5.—The Ohio Central railroad discontinued its entire freight service today from lack of fuel, and within three days will have to stop passenger traffic, if no coal can be had. The Lake Shore road has laid off nine freights on three divisions, and is burning cord wood and old ties in freight locomotives.

Prince Bismarck.

SUGAR TRUST FRAUDS.

The Examination Into the Affair Continues.

Walter Gaston Tells the Investigating Committee What He Knows About the Matter.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The senate committee which is investigating the alleged operations of the sugar trust in efforts to influence tariff legislation, resumed its sittings today, and Walter Gaston, the wire manufacturers of Wilkesbarre, Pa., was examined as to the truth of the story that he had, while occupying a room at the Arlington hotel, overheard a conversation between members of the sugar trust and United States senators, with regard to the necessity of protecting sugar legislation. The occurrence had been purely accidental and unavoidable on his part. He had come to Washington in March in the interest of the tariff on wire, and stopping at the Arlington hotel was assigned to room No. 33. The sixth day of that month he spent at the capitol and having put in a very busy day had retired early, about 8 o'clock, after reaching his room at the hotel, and had almost immediately fallen asleep. About 10 o'clock he was aroused by talking in the next room, which seemed to be of an animated character and was participated in by several persons, the voices of some of whom he recognized. He soon discovered that they were discussing the sugar schedule and that some of the participants in the conversation were exceedingly anxious that a duty on refined sugar should be provided for. He said also that he had heard the names of certain senators mentioned in the conversation.

Mr. Gaston was pressed very hard by the committee. He did not refuse to answer any question, but to a great many queries replied simply that he did not know. He said he was in the room at the Arlington on the date named and supposed that there were senators in conversation with Mr. Terrell, who occupied the room, because of the knowledge they displayed of what had taken place in the sub committee of finance that day. He would not say that he had recognized any of the voices. He believed that the bill was then to be defeated because of his previous knowledge of the power of the sugar interests. He said he had never told any one that he recognized the voice of any senators in the room occupied by Terrell. He did not give the name of the congressman to whom he gave the story and who in turn told it to Mr. Shriver. He was given until tomorrow to consider whether he would disclose the congressman's name.

FAR-REACHING RAYS.

The Great Electric Light Operated at Sandy Hook.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., May 5.—The great electric light that was recently erected here was operated last night for the first time in the east. The light was exhibited at the world's fair, Chicago. So intense and far reaching were the rays that places far down the Jersey coast, in Staten Island and Coney Island, were plainly visible. Vessels at anchor in the bay showed up almost as plainly as in daylight. The weather was not suitable for the perfect working of the light, but even with this condition against it, the rays must have been visable for a great distance. It is claimed that the light can be thrown without difficulty as far as Philadelphia.

FRANK IVES FINDS A FOEMAN.

Piot Proves Himself a Billiard Player of Great Skill.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A letter from Paris says that Frank Ives, who has been having things pretty much his own way at the Grand Cafe, Paris, where he is a star, has now got a foeman who tests his prowess in the person of Piot, whom George Slosson was anxious to secure for this country. Piot was engaged for the Grand Cafe some weeks ago and signalized himself by putting up an average of 47½ in a 250 point game of fourteen inch balk line, beating the American 250 to 22. Piot has maintained his steadiness and has furnished plenty of lively play for the Parisian billiard lovers.

Inquest at London.

LONDON, June 5.—Dr. George Danford H. Thomas, the coroner for the central district of the county of London, held an inquest today in St. Pancras upon the remains of George Burton, the itinerant musician who was killed on May 30 in Acton street, Grays Inn road, by Gen. John Hewston, of California, who thrust the point of his umbrella into Burton's left eye. Grisson Ricketts, solicitor, represented General Hewston, who was present at the inquiry. Mrs. Emma Burton, the widow of the musician, did not wish to see the body, but identified the clothing of the deceased as having belonged to her husband.

Uncle and Nephew Fight.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 4.—George and Newton Ladd, uncle and nephew, met today in the road in Maury county and engaged in a pistol battle, both being fatally wounded. The cause is supposed to have been a family quarrel.

A MISER'S MONEY

Found Secreted in Various Places About His House.

LEWISTON, Mo., June 5.—It has been discovered that Jos. A. Sawyer, the Monmouth farmer who was so mysteriously murdered two weeks ago, had at the time of his death about $12,000 in cash notes and bank books secreted in various places about his house. It was found by the heirs hidden away in kegs, old stockings and closets. The detection of the murder seems as far off as ever. The offer of $1,000 reward by the town and heirs has stimulated the efforts, but nothing has been discovered.

ROSE THREE INCHES.

Did the Waters at Portland, Ore., Last Night.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 5.—The river rose three inches last night. The weather bureau predicts that it will continue to rise until Wednesday morning, when it will be stationary, with a tendency to fall.

The damage along the river front alone is almost beyond comprehension. A rise of a few more inches will paralyze traffic on the only suburban street car system.

The situation in the north end of the city, where the homes of many poor are submerged, grows more serious every hour.

TORNADO IN NEBRASKA.

A Grand Army Hall and a Church Building Destroyed.

CALLOWAY, Neb., June 5.—A tornado last night totally wrecked Grand Army hall and blew the Episcopal church off its foundations and badly twisted it. The Methodist church is in the same condition, the brick school house, all barns and out buildings in the town were badly demolished but most of the business blocks and residences escaped serious damage. No person was badly hurt, as the storm was seen in time.

GEO. FLAIG TESTIFIES.

Coroner Harrod Continues the Investigation.

The Matter Being Watched With Unusual Interest—A Sensational Verdict Expected.

Coroner Harrod continued his examination of witnesses in the case of Mrs. George Flaig this morning. He visited the Flaig home, on Miner street, and took the testimony of the husband of the deceased and a number of ladies who attended the unfortunate woman in her illness. The coroner will render his verdict tomorrow and those who have followed the case closely look for sensational developments.

Speaking of the matter to a reporter this morning, a prominent Fort Wayne physician said: "I fear that some of my professional brethren are going at a too rapid pace in pushing this Flaig matter and are actuated by other than purely professional motives.

"Only the greatest caution should prevail in taking testimony and making an investigation. Nature sometimes produces ruptures such as caused the death of Drs. Stultz's and Ross' patient, and these gentlemen should not be too severely criticised until a most thorough investigation is made; even then mistakes in judgment may occur upon the part of those making the examination."

THE COURTS.

George Wilson Sent to Prison for One Year.

Two Prisoners Given Jail Sentences—The Day's News in the Courts.

In the circuit court this morning Judge O'Rourke sentenced George Wilson, who stole $20 from the money drawer of Peter Cour, to the penitentiary for one year. Ernest Nayland was sent to jail for sixty days for stealing a $1 set of harness. Louis Gibson was sent to jail for sixty days for assault and battery.

Frank J. Lordier has qualified as notary public.

The board of commissioners granted forty-seven liquor licenses yesterday.

The Rev. John Sauer has qualified as administrator of the estate of Charles Winkleman.

Samuel Ginther vs. Adam Cagnet, appealed from Esquire Shaffer to the circuit court. Drake & Dickerson are attorneys.

Judge Dawson granted Betsy Niemann a divorce from Benjamin Niemann. She was given the custody of two minor children and $300 alimony.

Judge O'Rourke has granted the following divorces: Alvina C. Lininger from Francis Lininger; Vinna R. Kellog from Fred A. Kellog, plaintiff given custody of child; Jennie O. Fessenden from Sylvester Fessenden.

A BIG THING.

The Ancient City of Pompeii to be Built and Burned at Lakeside.

Last night final arrangements were made between Messrs. McDonald and Miller and K. C. Pariseo for the presentation here of the spectacular attraction, "Last Days of Pompeii." This big destruction of fireworks and Pompeii will take place first on June 30 and again on July 4. There will then be eight succeeding exhibitions at intervals during the month. The exhibitions will take place at Lakeside park, which is to be fitted up for the gorgeous spectacle, an artificial lake being a distinguished feature.

The show is a big thing and the cost of producing the gigantic aggregation will be anywhere from $1,000 to $1,060,000. The contract calls for a company of 250 people to take part in the production and these, with the carpenters, stage hands, laborers, ticket sellers, watchmen, special police and "supes," will give employment to many idle hands. Over $1,000 worth of fire works are to be used each night.

BASE BALL LOSS BY RAIN.

Thirty Championship Games Postponed During the First Six Weeks.

Thirty championship base ball games have been postponed by rain and fire in the National league circuit up to and including the thirty-ninth playing day of the season, which was last Saturday. That rain record has probably not been equalled in the National league since professional base ball was played. Those thirty games mean a loss of many thousands of dollars to the clubs—$50,000 being a low estimate to put upon it. Of the sufferers thereby, the Louisvilles, true to their rain luck of former years, head the list with ten postponements. Then come the Cincinnatis with eight, the Baltimores with seven, the Philadelphias, Clevelands and Pittsburgs with five each, the St. Louis, Chicagos, Washingtons and Bostons with four apiece, the Brooklyns with three and the New Yorks with two. The New Yorks and Brooklyns played off one of their games, and the only financial loss with which the Giants have met was in the four inning game at the Polo grounds a week ago.

A SMALLPOX SCARE.

A Suspicious Case at the Police Station This Morning.

A German Baker From Chicago Very Ill—Suspected Thieves Arrested But Let Go—Other Cases.

The officers about the police station had quite a small pox scare this morning. Among the tramps who spent the night at the station was a German who had just arrived from Chicago. He said his name was George Webecamp and that he was en route to his home in Newark, N. J. The fellow also said he was a baker by trade. The man was very sick when he applied for lodging and had a high fever. During the night his fever continued and this morning when Dr. Hetrick called at the station to make his customary inspection the German was found to be broken out with sores resembling those of smallpox. He had a high fever and complained of pains in the back and head. Having just come from Chicago the case looked exceedingly suspicious, and, although Dr. Hetrick said it was not a case of smallpox, the fellow has hustled back into the tramp room. The township trustee was notified to look after the man, who is evidently about to be dangerously ill, and the case may be more clearly defined later on. The sores on the man were attributed to malarial fever.

ROBOS CAUGHT.

THE SENTINEL last evening contained an account of two tramps robbing Baker Scherer, of Maumee avenue, of a revolver and some money. Late in the afternoon Special Officer Stoll saw a number of tramps by the Gay street bridge and two of them seemed to answer the description of the fellows who robbed Mr. Scherer. Stoll notified Officer Flickinger and when the two officers attempted to arrest the suspects they ran for their lives, but were captured after a hard chase. One was a colored boy, who said his name was Dave Rice, and the other was a white, who gave his name as Henry Brenkert. Mr. Scherer called at the station house, but could not identify either of the prisoners as having been in the store. This morning Mayor Oakley let the boys go.

FOR TRESPASS.

Last night Officer Stoll, of the Pennsylvania company, arrested Peter Merlz, for trespassing on the company's grounds. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until Saturday afternoon.

LOCAL LINES.

Prof. Julius A. Bona has decided to remain in this city for the next twelve months.

Every member of the Fort Wayne Cycle club is expected to be present at the monthly meeting this evening.

Frank Horstman, letter carrier to South Wayne, has been dismissed from the postal service, by Postmaster Rockhill.

Mayor Oakley and Levi Griffith, of the board of public works, made an inspection of the new engine houses this morning.

On Lafayette street, this afternoon, the street car company's team ran away. The lineman was thrown out, but not hurt.

Messrs. S. D. Zais, F. E. Shreve, A. W. Paschall and William Cutler enjoyed a ride to New Haven last night on their wheels.

George Terry, a member of Columbian council No. 3, Order of Chosen Friends, of this city, died at Bucyrus, Ohio, on May 19.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lepper, of 45 Hussein avenue, a ten pound boy. Mr. Lepper is the well known clerk at Wallemath's grocery and is passing the cigars around.

At noon today, on East Wayne street, a team of horses driven by ex-County Commissioner Hartman ran away. Mr. Hartman and his son were thrown out but neither seriously hurt.

Humane Agent Schlaudroff is looking for homes for a child of three and one of eighteen months. The parents live on St. Mary's avenue and are not the proper persons to have charge of the children, who are said to be starving half the time.

W. W. Kimball Company.

The W. W. Kimball company has started into the fair to get something and they have got it. A fine booth was erected, some elegantly incased pianos were displayed therein, and Mr. Irving J. Holt was placed in charge of the display. This booth has been well looked after, and the great number of dealers who have called have been ever well cared for. In addition to this work the Kimball Pianos have been in a number of state buildings, as well as played in concert. Backing all this work, a splendid award was secured, which is being advertised all over the country.

The W. W. Kimball company went into the fair to get something and they got it, as we said before. Their dealers all over the country will feel the effects of this good work. Enterprise, enthusiasm, guided by brains, have done every thing for the Kimball piano. Nor must their organs be forgotten. It has been a great year for Kimball.—Musical Courier, Oct. 11th.

Let the arrangements be pushed for an appropriate celebration of the centennial anniversary of the building of the old fort.

The paving of West Washington street, which is now rapidly progressing, will make that thoroughfare one of the most popular in the city.

Mr. W. D. Page has just issued a handsome volume entitled "Fort Wayne to Date," as a souvenir of the twentieth anniversary of the Daily News. It gives a review of some of our busy industries with portraits of prominent citizens.

There ought not to be any "mud throwing" and personal abuse of candidates in the political campaign of this year and we hope there will not be any. That kind of politics is of the meanest and lowest type and is to be deplored in any community.

The republican county convention will be a hard one to handle. It will have twice as many delegates as the democratic county convention had, and some interesting scenes may be expected during its proceedings. The convention will be held one week from next Saturday.

The democrats of Wayne township will meet Thursday evening to nominate a township ticket. They ought to give us a ticket as strong as that nominated by the democrats of the county last Saturday and then the party would be in splendid shape for the coming political canvass.

The public schools of the state will have several new books at the opening of school next fall. Geographies, writing books, first, second and third readers will be modified. These changes will be made without any extra cost to patrons, as they will be taken up as a scholar is promoted from one grade to another. The contractors will stand the expense of the change.

The News has these kind words for Harry Metzger: "Harry Metzger ought to feel proud of his victory. It was achieved at very great odds, and shows him to stand high indeed in the estimation of his party. It will take a strong candidate to cut down this candidate's majority to a point anywhere near defeat. He has been a faithful, competent and obliging official, and many men recall his kindly services since he has been acting as deputy county clerk."

The Porter county republicans held a mass convention at Valparaiso, and took very decided action against the disfranchisement of the Lake county delegates in the Hammond convention, protesting against the nomination of Mr. Landis for congress in the most positive manner because of such disfranchisement. The resolutions also demanded that the nomination of Mr. Landis be set aside, and that a new convention be called, otherwise the republicans of Porter county would feel constrained to vote against him (Landis) in the approaching election.

Although interest in the commonwealers has been temporarily overshadowed by the troubles among the coal miners, it is evident that the "industrial armies" have by no means abandoned their march to the capital. Eight distinct divisions are on the way, ranging in numbers from Admiral Kelly's 1,260, who are floating down the Missouri, to the seventy five men who compose the Harvard, Ill., contingent. General Randall, with 175 men, is in eastern Ohio, and none of the marchers appear to be suffering from lack of food, supplies being furnished them at nearly every town through which they pass. It is pretty certain, therefore, that the crowd will sooner or later reach Washington.

The democratic managers of the tariff bill in the senate are not greatly disturbed over the intimation that an amendment will be offered providing for the repeal of the state bank tax. They do not believe that it would be pressed by those who have the deepest interest in the success of the repeal. The southern democratic senators are the ones who are the most concerned about the repeal of the state bank tax, and they also constitute the element in the senate most interested in the passage of the tariff bill, and it is not believed that they would agree to imperil the tariff bill or to delay in any way by passing in connection with it as a rider a measure which they consider of only comparative importance. The friends of the bill recall, in discussing the possibility of such an amendment, the fate of Senator Lodge's silver amendment and also revert to the fact when the silver repeal bill was before the senate during the extra session an amendment for the bank tax repeal was introduced, but not passed. They argue that if at that time, when a majority of the senators friendly to this measure were opposed to the bill then pending, the amendment was not strong enough to hold its place, it will not cut a more important figure in the pending tariff legislation.

The Daily News has the following kind words for Clarence W. Edsall: "The News believes that Mr. Clarence Edsall will be a hard candidate to defeat. There are points in his favor which cannot be controverted. It cannot be offensive to Mr. Edsall or his friends to refer to the fact that years ago his career seemed likely to end in misfortune of a wrecked life. It cannot be offensive, because we are all familiar with his manly struggle and the splendid victory of a recovered manhood. Everybody applauds an achievement such as this, and to it Mr. Edsall owes the honor that came to him last Saturday, for he is no better democrat —but he is a better man than in the other days when similar honors were denied him by his party. Moreover, it is true that no more capable officer than Mr. Edsall ever held a position in the Allen county court house, and his efficiency and uniform courtesy have not been forgotten by the people of Allen county. The republicans will need their best man if they hope to make a showing against Clarence Edsall."

Some Spring Weather.

Flowery May certainly beat the record this year. Early in the month in many parts of the Union there were great heat and droughts exactly at the time when there should have been rain. It was so warm that winter clothing became unbearable, even by those who had lived long enough to know the deceptive character of hot weather in May. Day after day there was no change in the dry dullness. Then about the middle of the month Chicago and Milwaukee had their terrific lake storm. It was the worst since that melancholy date when part of the Milwaukee water crib was washed away and so many workmen lost their lives. In the May lake storm this year 30 persons perished.

No sooner had the shipping interests on the lakes begun to take heart again than the fury of the wind and rain began over New England and the middle belt. Here it rained for days, while the rest of the country was smiling and sunny. At the same time it was a very cold rain, the thermometer ranging 15 degrees below the normal for the time of the year.

Pennsylvania got the worst of it. Her diversified surface, the great number of woodless mountain streams, make this state peculiarly liable to floods. The Johnstown disaster occurred May 31, 1889. Within a few days of that date, five years after, came the most destructive storm and flood. From the coast to the mountains of the Keystone State the storm extended. Never but once in the history of the signal service bureau was there so heavy a rainfall as occurred in the region of Philadelphia. Eight inches of rain fell. Every mountain brook became a raging torrent, swelling the Allegheny, Juniata, Delaware, Susquehanna, Schuylkill and other streams till they overflowed their banks, carrying away bridges, houses and river craft.

The greatest financial loss was occasioned by the breaking of the huge lumber booms at Williamsport, on the Susquehanna, and Lock Haven, on the West branch, 25 miles away. At Williamsport the loss was $3,000,000. At the Philadelphia suburb of Manayunk, on the Schuylkill, the loss was estimated at $200,000. At unfortunate Johnstown the Conemaugh river flooded cellars, washed out railroad tracks and occasioned loss of about $100,000. The losses of life are variously placed at from 10 to 30 persons. In such disasters the exact number of people who perish is hardly ever ascertained.

The London Times on America.

Read what the London Times thinks of the financial situation in the United States:

The symptoms are curiously like those of last year. We need not apprehend such a serious crisis, however, because business prices in the United States are already so low that they cannot be much lower. The drain of gold is a reminder that the United States, in spite of its vast potential resources, is a relatively poor country, dependent for floating capital on the older European countries.

The United States is in the position of a pushing manufacturer with a business continually developing, with money borrowed from his bankers. They cannot blame him that it is prudent to keep a watchful eye on any decline in his prosperity, and still more on any signs of his entering upon rash courses.

The second of these dreaded perils is the uncertainty regarding the future of silver and the tariff. It is certain that the worst evil that can greet the people of passing, and it has considerable capacity in that direction, could not harm American industry so much as the state of uncertainty that the country has been kept in. The descent of the United States from its high position of a few years ago in commerce and finance shows how sensitive a plant is commercial prosperity.

It is not a matter of so very much importance that men approach senators to buy their votes on certain clauses of the tariff bill. Any man mean enough to sell his soul to Satan might try to do that if his business interests were at stake, more's the pity. But it is very much to the point to know whether any senator took a bribe or not—a bribe, that is to say, in any shape or form in respect to sugar or in respect to anything else. We have had ugly rumors during the present session of congress about senators making large sums of money on the Stock Exchange through knowing beforehand the reports certain committees were to give out or the action that would be taken after the reports were made. It is time these rumors were settled once for all. A senator is as much bound as a president is to be above making money out of his official position. The American people will tolerate nothing less than absolutely clean hands. The senator who violates his oath so far as to use his official position to fill his own pocket should be held up to infamy and have the finger of scorn pointed at him the rest of his life. If there are any such senators now at Washington, the American people are entitled to know it. Let this investigation go to the bottom.

How many insane patients in the rest of the country are in the condition of the women city patients of New York on Ward's island, of whom The Herald has discovered that they are "fed on uneatable stuff called food and drugged into submission by the harsh use of slow poisons?" The Herald says: "Can any one doubt that they are often ill treated, insufficiently clad in winter, overcrowded at all times; that they die like sheep for lack of proper medicines or medical treatment; that they are wasting with scurvy and are inhumanly treated in many other particulars?"

THE KNOCK-OUT BLOW

HOW IT MAY BE QUICKLY DELIVERED.

George Dixon, the Clever Young Ring Artist, Gives Some Valuable Pointers to Aspiring Pugilists and Others—Points Illustrated.

THE WONDERFUL career of George Dixon, the world's champion featherweight pugilist, is known to every man who pretends to glance at the sporting news of the day. This remarkable little ring artist has yet to meet his equal, and it is doubtful if his superior will ever be born.

Interest in this human engine of warfare extends beyond the thousands who follow every bit of ring history, hence the curiosity to learn from the champion something of his methods has led him to prepare a booklet that illustrates, in cold type and pictorial accompaniment, just how he prepares for his battles and his system of warfare.

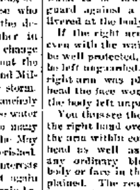

The right hand is placed directly over the heart, and the left hand held in a half-round or semi-circle manner. The motive in placing the right hand over the heart is to rest the arm within the proper distance of the head, to be raised and used as a guard against a left-hand blow delivered at the face. It is also within proper distance of the waist to be lowered and used as a guard against a left-hand blow delivered at the body.

If the right arm was to be placed even with the waist, the body would be well protected, but the face would be left unguarded. Then again, if the right arm was placed even with the head the face would be guarded, but the body left unprotected.

You thus see the reason for placing the right hand over the heart is to rest the arm within correct distance of the head as well as the waist to stop any ordinary blow delivered at the body or face in the manner I have explained. The reason for holding the left arm in a half round manner is to have it in position to strike a quick and effective blow. If the arm was held at full length the blow would have no force. It would be merely a slight push.

The straight counter or "jab," is one of the best blows in boxing, when delivered with judgment. To land a straight counter with effect, draw your opponent on to lead with his left, which you stop with your right, at the same time strike out with your left, and nine cases out of ten your opponent will be so anxious about landing his own left that he forgets to guard his face with his right, and you have a good percentage in your favor of landing the blow.

To land a left hand body blow, the head is thrown slightly to the right and your opponent's left arm will pass over your shoulder. As quickly as possible lead with your left for the body. If the blow lands it is usually a very telling one, as your opponent is coming toward you, while the weight of your body is also going toward him. This same blow may be delivered at the face, but it is not so effective as when landed on the body from the same position.

THE KNOCK OUT.

The cross-counter blow is often called "give and take." It derives the name of "give and take" from one man allowing his opponent an opportunity to land a blow, in order to return a more effective one. In the accompanying cut my opponent landed his left on my jaw, while my right hand has also landed on his jaw. My object is to land a quicker and more effective blow than he. The blow which lands first will break the force of the other man's blow.

There are three different ways known to science of the present day to avoid a cross-counter blow. The first and most common being to duck the head. The second by placing the right hand on the left side of the face. The third by shifting the left arm, immediately after striking the blow, directly opposite the position in which it lands. A guard for cross-counter by shifting the left arm into the shape of the letter V turned upside down is decidedly the most effective.

The right hand heart blow is the most dangerous of all body blows. The way I usually land a heart blow is by drawing my opponent on to lead with his left. As soon as he does, I cross guard my left arm under his left, thus raising it up out of the way of a right hander under the heart.

The pivot blow derives its name from the fact that you turn or pivot in order to deliver it. This is the blow with which George La Blanche, the Marine, gave brave Jack Dempsey his first defeat.

Previous to that noted battle, the pivot blow was almost unheard of, and since then it has been barred by nearly all the big athletic clubs where boxing matches are held. Some persons claim it a foul blow, but such is not so, as a man can land a pivot blow with his hand without striking his opponent with his elbow.

To land a pivot blow, wait until your opponent leads with his left at your face. Then place your left arm against the outer side of the left arm and hold it firm. The instant the arms meet, raise your right foot and the force of your opponent's arm coming against your arm will spin the body around with much force.

One of the most scientific blows is the swinging blow, behind the back. It is really a counter blow for a left-hand body punch, but accomplished in such a manner that one scarcely realizes how it is landed.

Every person who goes to see or reads about boxing matches is familiar with the "knock-out" blow. It has caused many a dollar to change hands. It has also caused many an ambitious young athlete who aspired to championship honors and whose name was gradually ascending the ladder to fame and fortune to sink into oblivion.

The "knock-out" blow gained its first prominence through John L. Sullivan. There are many ways of landing the blow, but the one most practiced is the straight right-hand, punch on the point of the jaw. To land a "knock-out" blow, carefully gauge your opponent's distance and just keep out of reach of his right hand by about an inch. Then draw him on to swing his right at your head.

The moment he leads just draw your head back and his arm will pass it. When the arm goes by your head then hit out straight from the shoulder with your right for the middle or point of his jaw. In case your opponent should strike straight with his right instead of swinging the blow, jump back and then slip to the side out of the way.

THE CROSS COUNTER.

Very few pugilists train alike, simply because where one man may be working to take off weight, another may be working to put it on. I will try and explain my own method of training by saying that when I am preparing for a contest I rise about 6 o'clock in the morning and take a walk of ten miles.

When I have gone about eight miles I begin to quicken the pace, and come home on a good fast run. My trainers then rub me down with Turkish towels until I am dry, and then apply a wash of alcohol and witch hazel. I then put on a new suit of "sweaters," after which I breakfast.

I usually eat the lean part of mutton chops or broiled steak well done. I eat eggs about every other day, and drink Bass's ale. Tea and coffee have a tendency to make a person nervous. After an hour's rest I start in at the punching bag and work there for an hour. I punch the bag for three minutes and then rest one minute.

I then "rough it" by wrestling and running about until about one hour before dinner. I then go through the "rubbing down" process again, and another change of sweaters. After dinner, which consists of roast meats, potatoes and other good solid food, I read and write until about 3 o'clock. Then I go for a twenty-mile run, and upon returning am rubbed down and another change of sweaters. Then I partake of a light supper and retire about 10 o'clock. The same course is followed until I reach the weight I am to fight at.

The Engaged Girl.

Do you know about that girl?
Yes, I do, but it isn't generally known yet.
What isn't?
The fact she is engaged.
So! You surprise me. Probably that is her betrothed who is with her now.
Yes, but it is not. Her betrothed has gone west in pursuit of certain opportunities which he trusts will yield him funds enough to get married on.
And who is this young man then?
Oh, just a young man. A young man ad interim, you might call him.
And does he know that she is engaged?
He has not the slightest suspicion of it.
But she will tell him, will she not?
It looks as though she might find it necessary.
And would that please her?
Alas, it would be a great surprise and shock to her, but she would bear it as well as she could and try to keep him to bear it also.
And when she had got him so that he bears it pretty well, what then?
Alas, it is only too likely that by then another young man will have come along, and she will be in the way of getting just such another dreadful shock.
Don't you think she ought to be shut up somewhere?
On some accounts, but then think what an instructive experience she is to these young men!
At least her engagement ought to be announced.
She couldn't afford that. She can't tell yet whether or not the favored aspirant will make a financial strike conclusive enough to prove he is the real man.
Meanwhile she is taking good goods from this young man on false pretenses. Do you think it respectable that girls should pledge their affections and give no visible sign?
Would you slit their ears?
Not quite that, but at least I should require that those who did not wear rings on their fingers should wear bells on their toes. I would see to it that these artless young men had some warning.—Life.

Had It His Way.

"I see you have had a visit from George Francis Train," said a grizzled old newspaper man this morning. "I never hear his name that I don't think of an incident in his remarkable career many years ago, when he was in his prime and enjoying almost unlimited power. When the Union Pacific road was being built and had nearly reached completion, Train took a large excursion party of eastern people out west to examine the enterprise. At Omaha, which was then the most primitive kind of a town, Train gave the party a dinner in the only hotel in the place. When the guests were seated, the erratic host discovered that one of the panes in the window behind his chair was broken out, and he ordered a waiter to stand in front of it and keep the draft from him. The servant refused, whereupon Train called the head waiter, who also declined to be used as a pneumonia screen. The philosopher grew angry and sent for the proprietor.

"'What will you take for this infernal old rookery?' he demanded. The boniface named $10,000. Train scratched off a check for the amount, threw it to the astonished proprietor, received a receipt and then called up the head waiter.

"'Stand in front of that hole in that window or get out of my service,' he directed. The head waiter took up his place as a breeze buffer without any further objections."—Washington Star.

Appreciation In the West.

"I just got back from Kansas City last night," remarked a visitor to the dramatic editor.
"Ah, what's new out there?"
"One friend Cottel had his new play produced there the night before I left."
"Big success, I hope. Did it have an enthusiastic reception?"
"It was vociferous. I never heard anything like it."
"Great. Did they call for the author?"
"Call for him? Well, I should say so, and they were so anxious to see him that they swarmed right up over the footlights with clubs and umbrellas and anything they could get their hands on."—Detroit Free Press.

"SHOW ME YOUR TONGUE."

This Is Always the First Thing the Doctor Says.

JUST WHY HE DOES IT.

The Latest Utterance of Modern Science on the Twin Question of Digestion and Disease.

Why does the doctor look at your tongue?

Because the condition and color of the tongue is one of the indications of the state of the stomach.

Because ninety-nine out of one hundred complaints are simply results (and therefore symptoms) of a disordered digestion. Before treating you the doctor must know what the stomach has to say.

Part of that tale the tongue tells him, but not all.

There are plenty of other signs which you may recognize for yourself. You only need to know what they mean.

A sense of weight and pain in the stomach, chest and back after eating; headache and sleepiness; a yellowish color of the eyes and skin; spells of dizziness; head hot and extremities cold, bad taste in the mouth and foul breath; weariness and languor; the gulping up of wind or gas; unnatural irritability and fretfulness; dry skin; loss of or variable appetite; bad dreams and broken sleep, constipation and irregularity of the bowels; flushes of heat and cold; aching of the back and limbs, etc.

The remedy is not drugs, but diet, the new predigested starch food called Paskola.

Being predigested, Paskola nourishes the body, feeds it, strengthens it, sustains it, while the stomach rests and gets well.

Paskola does not sicken and tear you to pieces as cathartics do; nor stimulate for you an hour, as "tonics" do.

It is a food containing the nutrient principles of other foods—condensed, predigested, immediately assimilable, pleasant as lemonade.

Being a predigested food (exactly what was needed) it solves the problem and leaves nature to repair her own machinery.

Just see what Paskola has done for others:

The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade St., New York:

GENTLEMEN:—I have commenced upon my third bottle of Paskola today. Permit me to say that it is simply wonderful; not only are its effects at once realized when suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion, faint stomach and similar afflictions, but upon the general system it puts new life immediately without having to wait a week or two to realize a slight improvement in one's self.

I have been treated by three very good physicians and one specialist in New York city for dyspepsia and general debility, and have never experienced in their costly treatment the change that I am now undergoing.

Accept this as my heartfelt acknowledgment and truthful estimation of the greatest discovery of this enlightened age.

Sincerely and respectfully,
MRS. R. P. CARY.

GENTLEMEN: I feel it my duty to write and tell the public what Paskola has done for me. Three years ago I was taken sick. I tried all kinds of medicine which did me no good, when at last I called a physician who told me that I had dyspepsia in its worst form and there was no hope for me.

At last I thought I would try Paskola and have taken two fifty-cent bottles. I can say I am a great deal better. My stomach will bear food now. When I commenced taking Pascola, I could eat only one tablespoonful of meal made in a gruel, now I can eat almost anything I want and I thank God I have found a cure at last.

Yours truly,
MRS EMILINE MORGAN.

Paskola may be obtained of any reputable druggist. A phamplet on food and digestion will be mailed free on application to The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Reade St., New York.

GOING AFTER PEARY.

An Expedition to Bring the Explorer Back to the United States.

Before Lieutenant Peary started on his polar expedition last year he prudently made arrangements for an auxiliary expedition to start north this summer to bring him and his party back. The details of the enterprise were left to the president of the Philadelphia Geographical club, Professor Angelo Heilprin, who was, if possible, to take command of the expedition. Professor Heilprin not finding it convenient to go north, the direction of the expedition has been assigned to Mr. Henry G. Bryant, the recording secretary of the club, who was Lieutenant Peary's second choice for the leadership. The expedition will be under the auspices of the Geographical club, though Lieutenant Peary himself provided most of the funds. The party will not exceed seven in number.

They will leave New York about June 24 on one of the passenger steamers sailing to St. Johns. At that port the steam whaler Falcon will be in readiness to sail north on or about July 4. The first stop will be made at Godhavn, on Disco island. Continuing north, Melville bay will be crossed as quickly as the condition of the ice permits, and a brief visit will be made to the settlement of primitive Eskimos near Cape York. Then a direct run will be made to the Peary headquarters at Bowdoin bay, in Inglefield gulf, in latitude 77 degrees 43 minutes, which point, it is hoped, will be reached by July 25.

HENRY G. BRYANT.

As Lieutenant Peary is not expected to return to his headquarters before the last of August, the ship will be available for purposes of original research and exploration for nearly a month. If the conditions are favorable, the plans of the auxiliary expedition contemplate an examination of the Baffin bay shore of Ellesmere Land with a view to looking for records of the two ill fated Swedish naturalists, Bjorling and Kallstenius, whose schooner was wrecked on the Carey islands in the summer of 1892.

Reputable arctic authorities affirm that a tribe of Eskimos lives on Ellesmere Land the members of which have never come in contact with a civilized man. A study of the habits and mode of life of these isolated northern natives would prove most interesting and instructive from the standpoint of an ethnologist. It is probable that Mr. Bryant will attempt to examine and chart the 300 miles of coast line forming the western border of Ellesmere Land, the outlines of which have never yet been ascertained. The ship is due at Bowdoin bay, however, on Sept. 1, and nothing in the way of side expeditions will be allowed to interfere with the main object of the voyage, the safe return of the Peary party to the United States.

True Love on Guard.

Among the callers at Auburn jail is a very elderly woman, who brings dainties to a man.
"What is he?" asked the turnkey; "your husband?"
"Oh, dear me, no!" said she coyly. "I guess he isn't my husband."
"Your brother?"
"Brother! Why, the idea!" said she. "No, he is not."
"Your son?" suggested the turnkey.
"Sir—r!" said she.
"Your father?"
"No, sir, he ain't my father, though that wouldn't be so bad. He is just—well—ahem!" said she, "he—well—he is my intended."
"Your intended!"
"Yes," said she, "he intended to be mine before he went and did this job that pulled him in, and, young man, I myself intend that he shall marry me when he comes out, and I never spoil a good intention. You give him them sassengers and tell him that his true love waits for him at the portle."
The face at the inside of the portal five minutes later looked happy—happy that there was a door "betwixt them."—Lewiston Journal.

His Share of It.

The young man was talking to the wealthy widow on the absorbing topic of marrying her daughter. In fact, he had gained the widow's consent to the match, and she was adding a few flourishes to the daughter.
"You know," she said rather diffidently, "that my daughter is not poor."
"Oh," he responded encouragingly, "don't worry about that. I'm poor enough for two."—Detroit Free Press.

many, many times, if you could put in a line all the packages of Pearline that have been used. Think of it! Hundreds of millions of packages, to millions of different women; each one of these women probably just as particular about her washing as you are.

They've no fault to find with it, but are using more and more of it every day; doesn't all this move you to try it for yourself, and see if you won't be just as well pleased? Crossing the ocean is easier, and quicker, and safer, than it was fifteen years ago. So is washing clothes. The latter is due to Pearline.

END OF THE WORLD.

PAST AND PRESENT STORIES OF THE GREAT EXIT.

Frank H. Norton Connects the Pyramids of Egypt with the Appearance and Re-Appearance of the Messiah—What Will Happen in 1901.

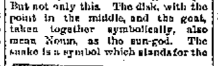

A GREAT DEAL has been written concerning the Great Pyramid of Egypt. It has been made to prove the antiquity of the "British Inch," to predict the Declaration of Independence, and to declare the spiritual origin of the American flag. Yet to-day it out-sphinxes the Sphinx in obscurity, and continues to dominate the earth as the insolvable secret to which the Sphinx itself is, maybe, the password. One hypothesis more or less will hardly alter the stability of the Pyramid, so I may venture on one which will have at least the virtue of novelty, and which will, at the same time, pursue the course of these papers in the direction of the same general conclusion.

About ten years ago I contributed, by request, to a scientific publication, which has since passed out of existence, a short paper on the celebrated "coffer" in the king's chamber, in the interior of the Great Pyramid of Ghizeh. It is the hypothesis alluded to in that paper with which I purpose dealing briefly in the present article.

Pyramid measuration has been widely recognized by astronomers, and other scientific persons, as having obvious relation with the earth's mean distance from the sun, as well as with other important measurements and proportions. Certain writers have claimed for the Pyramid also a prophetic mission bearing upon a Messianic reappearance. One such claims that as the birth of Christ occurred at the period "when shepherds watched their flocks by night," it must have been in that latitude at or about the September equinox, or when the sun enters Capricorn—this, by the way. Another writer contends that the origin of the Pyramid is antediluvian, holding that the theory of its having been constructed by King Cheops (Shoofu, or Kufu, fourth dynasty) and in B. C. 2,170, is based on an infirm foundation. This theory depends, partly, on the astronomical fact that the star a Draconis was the pole star at that time, and was visible through the angular passage in the Pyramid extending from the subterranean chamber. Partly, also, it is based on the existence of a cartouche (assumed to be that of King Cheops) inscribed in the interior of the Pyramid, and also in a rock tablet at Wady Magharah, a quarry whence the stones for its construction were taken. The cartouche is of the most archaic form known; it may be observed that it bears some resemblance to a fish.

As is seen, this cartouche contains the figures of a bird, a snake, a goat, a ewer or pitcher, and a disk with a point in the center. The pitcher certainly suggests water—and the sign Aquarius—just as the goat does the sign Capricornus. And as the circle with the dot is the equivalent of the Egyptian "Ra"—the sun—it does not require a very violent stretch of the imagination to assume that the ideographs meant that, at some period, when the sun was in the sign Capricornus, an event of a watery character would happen. Taken in connection with the curious prediction of Berosus, the priest of Bel, in Alexandria, that when the planets coincided in Capricornus, the world would be destroyed by water, the existence of this cartouche within the Pyramid is not without a certain value as coincident testimony.

There is no need, however, to draw on the imagination for suggestion in the case of these hieroglyphics, for we have in such an authority as M. Champollion the exact definition of the different forms employed in the cartouche; thus, the bird means "to guard, to preserve," and the pitcher and the goat stand for the letters N and B, and mean the god Ned or Noum, who was the Egyptian primordial deity, instead of King Cheops. But not only this. The disk, with the point in the middle, and the goat, taken together symbolically, also mean Noum, as the sun-god. The snake is a symbol which stands for the masculine nature of the god, as many of these deities expressed both sexes, or either of them, at will. Finally, Noum was the "Nile god," and specially designated the heliacal rising of that river: he would consequently be the natural god to select as a symbol of a general flood.

But the evidence that the intent of the Great Pyramid was to note the fact of such catastrophe occurring at certain periods, increases when we examine the "coffer" by the same light. This coffer stands in the "king's chamber," and is an oblong box, cut out of a solid block of granite, and 90 inches long, 41 inches high, 39 inches wide outside, the walls being 6 inches thick. Its capacity is four Anglo-Saxon quarters, or 32 bushels.

This coffer was long ago conceded not to be a sarcophagus. It has no lid, though there are grooves for a sliding lid; and a peculiar feature regarding it is that it is too large to have ever been carried into the place, where it is, through the entrance passage. The use of this receptacle for something has never yet been divined by any of the Pyramid students. The suggestion is here offered that it was designed to contain water, and thus signify the medium by which a future great earth destruction was to be accomplished. It will be seen in the cut that the coffer has been badly damaged by some means; and as it is known that it does not now stand in the same spot in the chamber that it did originally, and as there is evidence in the rock underlying the Pyramid that it has suffered from some terrible earth convulsion, this change of place is not remarkable. The temperature of the king's chamber never varies, and if the coffer had once contained water, and the lid had not been removed by some of the Arabs or other barbarians who once broke into and ravaged the Pyramid, that water would have remained in the coffer for all time. Prof. James Simpson of Edinburgh began a paper on the "Geometry of the Coffer" as follows: "As a standard measure of volume and weight, the coffer has been successfully and beautifully connected with the earth globe through the medium of the mean specific gravity ratio of 5.7 water, thus how perfectly it fits into and completes the system of metrology wrought into the masonry of the Great Pyramid." Yet, curiously enough, neither he nor any one else has ever yet suggested the possibility that the including of this ratio was one of the simple methods devised by the constructor of the coffer for directing the attention of posterity to this very element—water. The coffer is, geometrically, the key to the Pyramid, as the

THE PYRAMIDS.

Pyramid is the key to the problem of the "when" of the grand catastrophe that must inevitably accompany, periodically, the procession of the equinoxes. If that "when" is, as Berosus asserted, "when the planets coincide in the sign Capricorn," then the year 1901 is certainly significant. Working on entirely different lines (the prophecies of Daniel), Mr. H. Grattan Guinness, in his "Aproaching End of the Age," under date 1879, gives 1919 as the farthest period possible for the great conclusion.

A CROSSING WAR.

Muncie is the scene of a bitter crossing fight. A dispatch from that city says: "The Lake Erie and Western Railroad company has not only removed the crossing of the Muncie Belt Railroad company from the main track of their Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville division, but they took the crossing away and it cannot be found. The Belt company yesterday put a large force of men at work and replaced the crossing and now have an armed guard covering it day and night. Until recently the Muncie Belt was protected by an injunction, but the Lake Erie people talked them into lifting it pending a suit for final settlement. The Lake Erie Belt covers some valuable territory south of the city, which the Big Four seeks to enter and is doing it under guise of the Muncie Belt company.

The roofs and a portion of the sides and ends of the cars will be removed, making gondolas out of them. The employes of the company are buying the seats at a very low figure.

Oscar Murray, vice president of the Big Four, who was in Chicago the greater part of last week, returned to Cincinnati Sunday. He says the railway rate situation is gradually, but steadily, improving. It has become apparent that the only manner in which any profit to the road can be realized is by an advance in rates to tariff figures and closer and united adherence to the same. Matters at Chicago and St. Louis are getting into good shape, and there will be no trouble in bringing other points into line. The new trunk line agreement is admitted to be the strongest of its kind ever drawn up. One of the elements of its strength is that the presidents are the only officials who can order a reduction in rates.

An automatic arrangement for supplying a locomotive tender with water from an underground tank without the use of a steam pump is a somewhat novel system now being experimented with. In the well is placed a closed iron tank of the same capacity as the water tank above the water level, with a suction pipe to the water and a steam and water pipe extending up above ground, with hinged connections extending to the tender. The steam pipe is coupled up to a pipe on the engine, and when steam is turned on it starts the flow of water. A tender tank of 2,800 gallons capacity may be filled in about three minutes, and the station tank will be refilled automatically in about one minute. In an emergency water may be obtained without the use of steam.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. The druggists all sell it.

Miss Rose Leaf—Now, Mr. Coupon, what are you going to buy at my table? We have homemade doughnuts, wash cloths, tidies and aprons. I am sure you want some of each.

Mr. Coupon—Oh, thanks, awfully. Have you any kisses for sale?

Miss R. L.—Certainly. Five dollars each. How many will you have?

Mr. J. C. (handing out the money)—I'll take two; good measure, please.

Miss R. L. (with a seraphic smile)—Oh, yes, we are particular about that. Miss Autumn Leaf, will you deliver two kisses to Mr. Coupon?

(Miss Autumn Leaf is 40 in the shade, paradingly ugly and lives in Camden.)

Mr. J. C.—You are more than kind, Dobson (turning to his colored valet, who is carrying his parcels), just take this purchase from Miss Autumn Leaf.

CURTAIN.

The moral of this little drama is that the fin de siecle young man from New York rarely gets left, even at a Philadelphia church fair.—Life.

Never Mind the Men; Save the Colonel.

One of Colonel Tom Peyton's stories concerned Colonel Blank, who commanded a dashing Virginia regiment in A. P. Hill's corps. On one occasion this particular regiment had been detached on special duty and was some distance away from the main body of Lee's army and without support.

One day the command was in camp on the bank of a small stream, a little too deep, however, to ford. The colonel's tent, with those of one of the companies, was on the side of the stream away from the enemy, who were known to be not far off. The other companies were on the enemy's side of the creek, which was spanned by a small wooden bridge.

During the day the pickets brought in news that the Federals had begun a rapid advance in force and would soon be upon them. There was considerable consternation, and the captains of the companies on the enemy's side of the stream were preparing to cross it to the other side, when, to their surprise, they saw some of their own men attack the bridge with axes. In all haste they ordered the work to be stopped and were talking with the workmen when Colonel Blank rode up to the opposite side of the stream in a great rage.

"Cut down that bridge!" he ordered in tones of thunder.

"But, colonel"—one of the subordinate officers interposed.

"Never mind, sir!" shouted the colonel, red in the face with wrath. "Never mind, sir! I know what I am doing! The enemy is coming, sir, and by destroying the bridge I will be able to retire in good order."

"But, colonel, what will become of the regiment?" asked another captain.

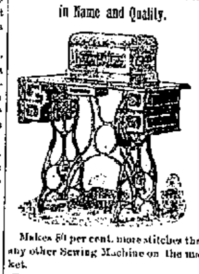

"Oh, —— the regiment!" yelled the colonel. "What does it matter about the regiment anyway? The colonel must be saved, sir. Cut down the bridge!"

But the other officers took the matter into their own hands, and the bridge remained intact until the last Confederate soldier had crossed, and then it was cut down. The enemy soon came up, but were checked long enough at the stream to allow Colonel Blank and his regiment to regain the main army.—Exchange.

HARPER'S WAR VOLUMES

May 18, 1894.

To The Editor:

Volume No. 5 of Harper War Book just came, and it surprised me greatly to find the large colored map. Accept thanks for your promptness. I thought the other parts couldn't be beat, but they seem to grow better. If others appreciate the value of what you are giving for only 10 cents, you must sell a host of them, for if anybody once sees these War Volumes they must be as much surprised as I have been at so much, and so good, for such a low price. You deserve a vote of thanks for what you are doing. The good done by placing this great Harper history of the civil war in reach of every man, woman and child cannot be calculated.

Yours very truly,
F. B. D.

The police last night received a dispatch from Grand Rapids from a woman who signed her name as Mary Marshall. She wished to know "if Peter Marshall who had suicided was minus an index finger of the right hand." The dispatch was evidently a mistake as no such a man suicided here.

Last night J. Mullen, who lives over a saloon at the corner of Superior and Harrison streets with his wife, went to Nebraska to collect some accounts. At a very late hour he had not returned and some of his friends became alarmed and notified the officers at police headquarters. This morning Mullen was home bright and early as though nothing had happened.

The dog poisoner has been in that portion of the city known as Irishtown for the past few days and has killed off many curs, cats, peafowls, guineas and other noise makers. The fellow who is doing all this is evidently another "Jack," who has a mania for the eternal fitness of things, and whose fad seems to be an insane desire to redeem the city from barnyard pleasantries to a city standard.

Clarence E. Smith, a graduate of Taylor university, has just passed a highly creditable examination at De Pauw university and will graduate with this year's class with a higher grade in mathematics than any former student of the university. He has had the tutorship in mathematics this year and is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Mr. Smith is a son-in-law of Presiding Elder Mahin and was formerly a newspaper carrier for The Sentinel.

Last Sunday evening Mr. William Bartels, proprietor of the Washington house, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his birth, at the home of Rudy Kaiser, on Force street. Quite a number of his friends were present to congratulate him. The evening was spent in playing games, after which a dainty luncheon was served. The greatest feature of the evening was the speech made by Mr. Kessel, after which the guests departed, having enjoyed themselves very much.

The Huntington Herald bestows this compliment on two well known Fort Wayne musicians: "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stouder, of Fort Wayne, had charge of the music at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Mrs. Stouder presided at the organ and Mr. Stouder rendered baritone solos. Both are accomplished in their respective parts and were much appreciated by the large congregation present. Mr. Stouder's solos were Salve Regina, by Buck, and Oh, Jesus, Thou Art Standing By, by Geibel. Mrs. Stouder's numbers were the Vesper Hymn, by Whitney; Communion, in G, by Batiste, and Canson Ballade, by Bockmann. Every number was a gem and was skilfully executed. Alfred Grindle, who has had charge of the music at the Presbyterian church, finds it too inconvenient to continue in the service of the church any longer and it is possible Mr. and Mrs Stouder will be employed. It is generally hoped that such arrangements may be perfected."

Last evening Dr. J. E. McOscar saved a tramp from death by suicide. The doctor was standing talking to a friend on South Calhoun street, when a vagrant stepped up and said: "I had just determined to throw myself under yon swiftly moving train when, inspired by the kindly beam in your eye and the broad bump of generosity upon your forehead, I have come to you for a small loan." The wag presented a stumpped limb and said he had lost a foot in a silver mine. "I sat under the greenwood tree all day, reflecting upon my miserable condition," continued the fellow, "and I had a long conflict with my soul, but I am now better and wish to save enough cash to get a new foot. Can't you help me?" The fellow was such an oddity that a number of others gathered about to hear the wag moralize. Finally a bunch of lead pencils was purchased for him and the fellow went up the street declaring that he had a new lease on life and would sell every pencil and lay the foundation for a fortune—or a glorious drunk.

SCIENCE OF THE DAY.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS FOR INDUSTRIAL FIELD.

An Illusion Which Has Puzzled Two Continents Finally Explained—Largest Wheat Farm — Rendering Cruisers Invisible—Notes of Progress.

A Sinking Country.

Col. E. J. Corthell, an engineer of note, who is now making surveys for a $5,000,000 bridge across the Mississippi near New Orleans, says that the city is steadily sinking. He says that there is a movement on foot among eminent engineers to have an investigation made into the delta country with a view to ascertain how much sinking there has been during the last thirty years. It is a fact that the entire delta country is gradually sinking. From a number of bench marks made by surveyors years ago on trees, etc., on the gulf coast, and a comparison of the mean level of the gulf now with what it was twenty years ago, in connection with the present bench marks, the fact has developed that the delta coast has sunken at least a foot within the past thirty or forty years. There is no doubt that the city of New Orleans is some six inches lower than it was forty years ago. The intention is to ascertain the exact sinking of the earth and to investigate the causes which have produced it.

New Fire Lighter.

Here is a valuable little kitchen implement which has just made its appearance in England. It is for quickly lighting the fire without the aid of any kindling. It is formed of a strong iron casting, in the box-like end of which is embedded a composition that greatly resembles asbestos in its properties. This composition is fastened down by a wire mesh, and when being used is soaked with paraffine, and set in the grate. It is then lighted and coals heaped on in the ordinary way, and as soon as the fire is well alight is removed.

American Oil Cake.

The feeding stuffs act, which went into effect in Great Britain, calls for an invoice giving the name and nature of the article sold, but not necessarily the composition. The sale of any article for use as food for cattle implies a warranty by the seller that the article is suitable for feeding purposes.

It was at first feared that our linseed cake trade might be injuriously affected by the law, but alarm would now appear to be groundless. The chief houses in Dublin engaged in the oil cake trade have held a meeting and taken the opinion of counsel as to their liability under the new act. The opinion of counsel is that the trade may be conducted as usual, the law complied with and criminal prosecution avoided by invoicing and branding linseed cake which is 95 per cent pure "linseed cake, pure," and in the case of American oil cake, wherein the constituents are not fully known, "American oil cake compound" or "linseed cake, a compound of linseed and other seed and substances."

This interpretation of the law is very satisfactory, as of the 7,000 tons of linseed or oil cake handled by the Dublin trade, about 2,000 are from the United States. The United States also furnish the Dublin trade about 1,500 tons of decorticated cotton cake.

There is an immense consumption of oil cake in the United Kingdom, the chief sources of supply being Russia, Canada and the United States. As a feed it is very popular abroad and the trade is one well worth keeping.

The Modern Orchard.

A change has come over public opinion. The thick setting of trees in orchards has been largely abandoned, and wide planting is the general practice. Such excellent results have been obtained from the change that many progressive farmers have gone still further. Observing that the trees at the ends of the orchard were always the most flourishing, they naturally set to work to discover the cause for the difference. The explanation was soon found in the greater amount of air and sun the end trees received, and the more extended feeding ground for the roots.

Nowadays the tendency among progressive growers is to plant a single row of trees around a field, and a double row directly across the center of the field. This gives each tree the advantages formerly possessed by the end trees alone. It also makes the orchard less dispersed than it would be if the center double row were omitted, and offers facilities for cultivating and gathering the fruit as speedily as possible. It would seem as though the days for planting trees in blocks were past, and that old-fashioned orchards were doomed.

We Say No Too.

(Daily News.)

It didn't take much effort to make the nickel gambling machines take to the woods. Now, let every saloon in the city that has stalls for the entertainment of men and women drinkers, be watched, and their licenses revoked if boys and girls are permitted to patronize their bars.

Look a Leetle Out.

Editor Sentinel:

That young lady that lives on Williams street that waits on the corner of Williams street and Hoagland avenue for a certain married man to walk to work with, had better look out; his wife may catch on to the racket.
